

NCJ Gives Otokuni District's Elementary Students a Tour, Holds an Eco Class

On October 18, NCJ invited 40 elementary students from Kyoto Prefecture's Otokuni Education District (the cities of Mukomachi, Nagaokakyo, and Oyamazaki located around NCJ's head office building), and gave them an eco class under the theme, "Motor and the Global Environment: What We Can Do," followed by a tour in the showroom on the building's first floor. We will continue to host these activities for people of the local community to help them become more familiar with Nidec and motors.

Students are given a quiz to learn about Nidec and motors

(Right) Students hard at making a motor

During the tour in the showroom on the first floor, students are surprised to see various shapes of motors used in many scenes of our lives.